Amended student integrity bill passed

More budget cuts discussed at Faculty Senate meeting

Senate to vote on granting money for Veteran's Ball

The budget cuts that will go into effect in the 2012 fall semester were the main topics of the Cerritos College Faculty Senate meeting on Tuesday at the Cheryl A. Epple Board Room.

On Thursday, the senate announced that Cerritos College was receiving an $8.6 million deduction as well as a $9.5 million deficit for the college next year.

On Friday, the senate had a workshop in which it and representatives from the departments that attended listened to speakers on how to organize the priorities of classes available.

In Tuesday’s meeting, Faculty Senate Debbs Moore said, “One of the things that the speakers pointed out to us on Friday was that it is going to try to come up with some type of course prioritization, which was obviously the exercise they led us through on Friday, that the decisions should be made by a small committee.

“It is almost another layer of bureaucracy but it makes sense the way they presented it.”

It would be up to the committee to determine what should be considered priority programs and courses and what should be eliminated from the budget.

More added that the committee would have to be completely unbiased and strictly think of the benefit of the students and not the departments that the committee members belong to.

She would like to set up the committee with a representative for each of the seven divisions that actually teach classes so that there is equal representation.

As far as deciding what should be the senate was given a list of guidelines for fall semester cuts created by Vice President of Academic Affairs Marilyn Brook.

Brook said, “It really is a discussion of how do we pull together as a community and how do we keep everybody’s jobs and how do we keep the classes that are currently being taught.

See Budget Cuts Page 2

CERRITOS COLLEGE

First issue four, additional copies $1
WWW.TALONMARKS.COM
VOLUME 56, NO. 18

WEDNESDAY MARCH 14, 2012

Talon Marks

CERRITOS COLLEGE

Associated Students of Cerritos College President Jasmin Ramirez signed into law the amendment to the Student Integrity Act on Friday, which will change the ways in which ASCC awards committees are selected.

On Feb. 14, the ASCC Senate passed the original bill, introduced by Senate Clerk Yidegar Santiago Zuniga, but Ramirez vetoed it. Ramirez said that the change was not what the ASCC needed right now.

The original bill set out to remove authority from Ramirez to select students from the ASCC to the awards committee, and allow the committee to be selected by a committee consisting of four official recognized advisors from clubs under the Inter-Club Council, four local residents from the Cerritos College district and four students of Cerritos College.

Ramirez addressed the reasoning behind vetoing the original bill.

“It [the original bill] was not in the best interest of the students. It would have left the committee being more faculty and adviser led, rather than being more student led,” she said.

She also said that it would have been the only non-student led committee within ASCC.

Zuniga addressed the major benefits in the bill, saying, “Now we have people who are representative from each student government branch, and then the ASCC president and vice-president will choose the three faculty.

The amended bill changes the amount of ASCC officially recognized advisors from four to eight, places one retired faculty member from Cerritos College, one volunteer from the Cerritos Community College District, one Cerritos College alumnus that is not currently enrolled and seven students of Cerritos College.

Zuniga spoke on one of the unique benefits of the bill.

“This is, now, we as the student body, we know who we are sending into the committee, rather than the way it was, where the committee was only selected by one person,” she said.

Although Ramirez signed the bill into law, she requested that Zuniga amend some grammatical errors and present those changes for her approval.

Ramirez feels that student integrity is something that needs to change.

“We’ve had many issues in the past with student integrity,” she said.

Zuniga feels that the bill now provides more accountability to the students.

According to Zuniga, a decision on whether to sign the amended bill will be made by March 19.

“By Monday, we needed to put in the senate agenda whether it was going to be ratified or not so that we [the student senate] can go over it.”

Zuniga commented on why he decided to change the amount of retired faculty that will be a part of the awards committee process.

“Before, I was proposing to have four retired faculty and four advisors, but with the opening of the hall of fame, I thought, why not bring alumni in because they were our Cerritos College students,” she said.

With awards applications also being available on Monday, Zuniga wanted to have a decision rendered on the state of the amended bill, so that specific flaws could be addressed regarding the Alumni and Woman of the year awards, which the Student Integrity Act also addressed. Students also expressed opinions on the act.

Gabriela Granados, who majors in social work, likes the way that the new law is worded.

See Student Integrity Act Page 2

MARCH 14, 2012

LAUREN GANDARA

Sport Editor

Lauren.Gandara@talonmarks.com

The Vet Ball will be held at the student activities center on April 13 at 5:30 p.m.

Student Veterans Club president Hsiao Hsu was unavailable for comment.

Student Veterans Club president Hsiao Hsu was unavailable for comment.

Student Veterans Club Public Relations Officer Lance Mahrman said, “This is a fund raiser and it is in doing the event at a good price since he is also a veteran.

We are all excited to be putting on this event and hopefully the vote passes.”

An estimated 300 student veterans and non-veterans Cerritos College students in the advancement of academic and personal endeavors.

“Cerritos College alumni who are currently attending USC and who is also an army veteran and founder of the Veterans Club will be one of the key speakers. Faculty member and armed forces veteran, Philip Satterfield, will be the second key speaker. The third key speaker, Charles Stover is a Veteran’s Veteran and current President of the City of Cerritos First Combat Engineer Battalion Adoption Committee. Officials from the Long Beach VA Healthcare System, AMVETS, and other veterans service organizations have been invited to attend as well. The purpose of their attendance is to increase awareness on the various resources available to veterans.

The purpose of the Student Veterans Club is to assist both veterans and non-veterans Cerritos College students in the advancement of academic and personal endeavors.

A Cerritos College alumnus that is not currently enrolled and seven students of Cerritos College.

Zuniga spoke on one of the unique benefits of the bill.

“Before, I was proposing to have four retired faculty and four advisors, but with the opening of the hall of fame, I thought, why not bring alumni in because they were our Cerritos College students,” she said.

Zuniga commented on why he decided to change the amount of retired faculty that will be a part of the awards committee process.

“Before, I was proposing to have four retired faculty and four advisors, but with the opening of the hall of fame, I thought, why not bring alumni in because they were our Cerritos College students,” she said.

With awards applications also being available on Monday, Zuniga wanted to have a decision rendered on the state of the amended bill, so that specific flaws could be addressed regarding the Alumni and Woman of the year awards, which the Student Integrity Act also addressed. Students also expressed opinions on the act.

Gabriela Granados, who majors in social work, likes the way that the new law is worded.

See Student Integrity Act Page 2

MARCH 14, 2012

LAUREN GANDARA

Sport Editor

Lauren.Gandara@talonmarks.com

The Vet Ball will be held at the student activities center on April 13 at 5:30 p.m.

Student Veterans Club president Hsiao Hsu was unavailable for comment.

Student Veterans Club Public Relations Officer Lance Mahrman said, “This is a fund raiser and it is in doing the event at a good price since he is also a veteran.

We are all excited to be putting on this event and hopefully the vote passes.”

An estimated 300 student veterans and non-veterans Cerritos College students in the advancement of academic and personal endeavors.

“Cerritos College alumni who are currently attending USC and who is also an army veteran and founder of the Veterans Club will be one of the key speakers. Faculty member and armed forces veteran, Philip Satterfield, will be the second key speaker. The third key speaker, Charles Stover is a Veteran’s Veteran and current President of the City of Cerritos First Combat Engineer Battalion Adoption Committee. Officials from the Long Beach VA Healthcare System, AMVETS, and other veterans service organizations have been invited to attend as well. The purpose of their attendance is to increase awareness on the various resources available to veterans.

The purpose of the Student Veterans Club is to assist both veterans and non-veterans Cerritos College students in the advancement of academic and personal endeavors.

A Cerritos College alumnus that is not currently enrolled and seven students of Cerritos College.

Zuniga spoke on one of the unique benefits of the bill.

“Before, I was proposing to have four retired faculty and four advisors, but with the opening of the hall of fame, I thought, why not bring alumni in because they were our Cerritos College students,” she said.

Zuniga commented on why he decided to change the amount of retired faculty that will be a part of the awards committee process.

“Before, I was proposing to have four retired faculty and four advisors, but with the opening of the hall of fame, I thought, why not bring alumni in because they were our Cerritos College students,” she said.

With awards applications also being available on Monday, Zuniga wanted to have a decision rendered on the state of the amended bill, so that specific flaws could be addressed regarding the Alumni and Woman of the year awards, which the Student Integrity Act also addressed. Students also expressed opinions on the act.

Gabriela Granados, who majors in social work, likes the way that the new law is worded.

See Student Integrity Act Page 2

More budget cuts discussed at Faculty Senate meeting

Senate to vote on granting money for Veteran’s Ball
The mix up started on the third column with the Nancy Somali and went through the rest of the story.

Inter Club

The committee is looking for students who have been involved with the ICC and with student activities who also have shown a great amount of leadership in the school.

Fragoso mentioned that the amount of money involved was up for discussion.

The committee cannot bar scholarships such as an Honorary or an Outstanding Student Scholarship worth $250.

We’re thinking of raising the scholarship money to $250,” he said.

The winners of the scholarships will be awarded at the end of the semester during the Awards Ceremony.

Campus to host tour for high school students

Daniel Fragoso, ICC Commissioner, is looking for students to volunteer at Senior Preview Day on April 27 from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The event is for high school students from local high schools.

“We are looking for volunteers, we need at least 100 volunteers for this event, because over a thousand students are going to be coming and we need volunteers mainly on head-counting,” he said.

They will have a welcome rally, a pre-sentation, a booth and live music for the seniors.

John Gonzalez

Nursing major Jarrel Terrazas talked to the Career Exploration Resources Workshop with her head on for a nursing major.

By the time the workshop was over, she was exposed to new possibilities in the medical field, even becoming a doctor.

She was among one of the 10 students that attended the workshop on Monday which gave students information concerning jobs that correspond with their major.

Career Counselor Traci Uhlka held the workshop to hopes of getting students to see that there are many jobs that can be acquired through the major students choose other than the just the title of the major.

Uhlka said, “I just hope that they realize that there is a wealth of information about careers.”

She went on to say, “It also serves to help them see the importance of gathering information about careers so they can make career decisions.”

Students were shown different websites and resources that showed them different careers that are linked to a single major.

The workshop was one of the students that had completed its work and had an opportunity to expand on their knowledge on jobs that require their major.

The workshop was not only for students who had completed their work, undecided students were welcomed to come and learn more about certain sites that showed them that could possibly help them choose their major in the future.

“Career Exploration Resources Workshop will help the students to explore different careers and resources,” said Uhlka.

We’re looking forward to students to come and learn more about what their major can offer them,” she said.

According to the Executive Director of the Career College-Foundation, Richard Duncan, the Dinner and Awards Ceremony is dedicated to recognizing the award recipients and their accomplishments.

Richardson said, “The Hall of Fame event is an event that is going to honor seven distinguished categories of award recipients.”

He then said that the seven categories being honored are: Distinguished Female Athlete, Distinguished Male Athlete, Distinguished Coach, Distinguished Alumni, Distinguished Classified/Confidential Employees, Distinguished Faculty Member and a Distinguished Corporate Partner.

The list of honorees include:

• Troy Jetlal Head Coach Buruma Remedia as the recipient of the Distinguished Female Athlete Award.
• Former Minnesota Viking eight-time Pro Bowl offensive tackle Ron Yary, being awarded the Distinguished Male Athlete Award.
• Former Cerritos College Baseball Coach Vic Kincade will receive the Distinguished Coach Award.
• Gerald Resendez will receive the Distinguished Alumna Award.
• John Gallant will receive the Classified/Confidential Faculty Member Award.

Edward Blossfield will receive the Distinguished Faculty Award and GID INC will receive the Distinguished Faculty award.

Richardson then said that they’re expecting 250 people to attend the Dinner and Awards Ceremony.

Richardson talks about what to expect “It’ll be an evening that will have a dinner, there will be videos on each of the award recipients and a nice presentation Program.”

“Secretary of the Foundation Office Junior Cole talks about the event “Well, it recognizes outstanding athletes and faculty and classified staff and alumni, corporate partners, people who have made an impact on the college throughout the year’s.”

Cole then said that Cerritos College president, Lucy flick it was a start that the school recognize people who’ve had a contribution to Cerritos College.

Psychologist Melissa Hernandez said, “I think it’s a good idea.”

Hernandez then said that she feels there should be more recipients of more awards due to how long the school has been around.

Hernandez concluded, “I think it’s a good thing to start out with since it’s the first time they’re going to do it, but I think there’s more people out there that attended Cerritos College and should be honored and represent Cerritos College.”

Hernandez concluded and said that she is hopeful the ears about this event next year.
Social network inactivists

In today’s age of technology, people have access to the world at the palm of their hand, not only giving them information, but a voice to be heard world-wide with the click of a button. However, new media outlets and technology such as social media sites are creating “computer activists,” uneducated people who feel like they have the tools to do so, but then they’re made a significant contribution to a cause.

Sharing a viral video is just the start, it can end there. In today’s times, a video can make Kendy a celebrity. Cover the Night, join the conversation, make the government listen to the masses and make something happen because we all decided to stand together.

With news coming in as it hap- pens, people tend to see more and want to take action as they are swept up by a whole new movement.

A recent movement to hit the masses is the Kendy 2012 videos. Contrary to the popular belief, the Kendy 2012 movement has less to do with the subject matter and more to do with its message - get involved.

But in sharing and liking the videos just a bunch of talk to make people concerned about trending topics like the occupy movement or ending child prostitution, or is it the real deal?

Are people willing to go the whole nine yards to get something done about certain issues?

With social networking websites such as Twitter and Facebook, certain topics spread like wildfire andbare friends sharing things faster than ever before.

This generation is one made of technology and fast moving media with ways to contact people all over the world in seconds, also making it part of computer activism.

In the 1960s we didn’t wait to stir around and hope for the best to hap-pen. People actually went out and made signs saying “Free Tibet” or “End the war in Vietnam.”

With new technology, people are becoming too lazy to go out and do something about it.

If technology were to be incor-porated with going out and doing something, things would get accom-plished.

A great example of technology and activism working hand in hand is the Arab spring where citizens from countries such as Egypt, Libya and Yemen throughout the Mid-dle East and Northern Africa were brought together by social networking sites and led to protests and up- risings.

We have a chance to shape histo-ry, to actually stand up and make the government listen to the people.

Of students to the college system. The struggles of returning stu-dents need.

It is possible that in the time since we were last in school that things have changed.

It goes back to that fast-paced environment that seems ever so present in class.

As returning students, we de- sire to be an equal playing field as our classmates, but maybe the time that we have been away from school hinders that reality.

It is a bad thing if someone is returning to school and needs a lot of extra attention.

Not that I expect any special treatment, but it would be awesom- e to have some of the same security that knowing that I can make mis-takes without feeling as if I am a failure.

I am sure that my professors don’t feel that way but it is an issue.

It goes back to that fast-paced environment that seems ever so present in class.

At the expense of someone’s hunger is it right.

If help is available, do not abuse the system.

Student Health Services provides food temporarily, but the goal is to help students to continue getting food.

It’s immoral to leave someone with- out food; we need food for our body to function accordantly, and also to be able to focus in school.

Wanting to save a couple of dollars at the expense of someone’s hunger is not right.

Did we ever write something that grasped your heart? Do you want to congratulate us on the great job we’re doing? Whatever the case may be, we would love to hear from you, our readers. Send a LETTER to the EDITOR. No personal attacks, email us at talonmarks.com and bring any concerns to my attention at (562) 860-2451 ext. 2617. Letters to our editor will not be published. This means we don’t want any hate speech or anonymity questions (unless by preference), and only allow your letters for length to pre- vent them, but they appear in full online.

If the subject of your letter is campus related, then it will be given priority.

“Talon Marks is a First Amendment publication. Edited by Torque, the Talon Marks is partially funded by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Facilities and academic supervision are provided by the Journalism Program. Newsroom offices are located in the Fine Arts Building, Room 204.

Cerritos College is located at 11110 Alondra Blvd., Norwalk, CA 90650. Telephone numbers: (562) 860-2617, ext. 204. Fax (562) 467-5044. Vol. 56 No. 10, Feb/March 2012. Talon Marks is published weekly. Edited by Torque. Opinions expressed in this publication are the personal opinions of the editorial staff, the Associated Students of Cerritos College and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the administration or the Board of Trustees. This publication is made available to the public for educational purposes only. All content is © 2012. Talon Marks. All rights reserved by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Talon Marks is compiled and printed by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. For additional information, please contact our student editor, Sara Castillo at (562) 860-2451 ext. 204 or (562) 860-2617. All rights reserved. Published weekly by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Talon Marks is distributed to students, faculty, staff and community members through the Student Media Program.

TALON MARKS MEME CONTEST

OPINION - 3

Wednesday, March 14, 2012 • www.talonmarks.com

“Talon Marks is a First Amendment publication. Edited by Torque, the Talon Marks is partially funded by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Facilities and academic supervision are provided by the Journalism Program. Newsroom offices are located in the Fine Arts Building, Room 204.

Cerritos College is located at 11110 Alondra Blvd., Norwalk, CA 90650. Telephone numbers: (562) 860-2617, ext. 204. Fax (562) 467-5044. Vol. 56 No. 10, Feb/March 2012. Talon Marks is published weekly. Edited by Torque. Opinions expressed in this publication are the personal opinions of the editorial staff, the Associated Students of Cerritos College and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the administration or the Board of Trustees. This publication is made available to the public for educational purposes only. All content is © 2012. Talon Marks. All rights reserved by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Talon Marks is compiled and printed by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Facilities and academic supervision are provided by the Journalism Program. Newsroom offices are located in the Fine Arts Building, Room 204.

Cerritos College is located at 11110 Alondra Blvd., Norwalk, CA 90650. Telephone numbers: (562) 860-2617, ext. 204. Fax (562) 467-5044. Vol. 56 No. 10, Feb/March 2012. Talon Marks is published weekly. Edited by Torque. Opinions expressed in this publication are the personal opinions of the editorial staff, the Associated Students of Cerritos College and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the administration or the Board of Trustees. This publication is made available to the public for educational purposes only. All content is © 2012. Talon Marks. All rights reserved by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Talon Marks is compiled and printed by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Facilities and academic supervision are provided by the Journalism Program. Newsroom offices are located in the Fine Arts Building, Room 204.

Cerritos College is located at 11110 Alondra Blvd., Norwalk, CA 90650. Telephone numbers: (562) 860-2617, ext. 204. Fax (562) 467-5044. Vol. 56 No. 10, Feb/March 2012. Talon Marks is published weekly. Edited by Torque. Opinions expressed in this publication are the personal opinions of the editorial staff, the Associated Students of Cerritos College and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the administration or the Board of Trustees. This publication is made available to the public for educational purposes only. All content is © 2012. Talon Marks. All rights reserved by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Talon Marks is compiled and printed by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Facilities and academic supervision are provided by the Journalism Program. Newsroom offices are located in the Fine Arts Building, Room 204.

Cerritos College is located at 11110 Alondra Blvd., Norwalk, CA 90650. Telephone numbers: (562) 860-2617, ext. 204. Fax (562) 467-5044. Vol. 56 No. 10, Feb/March 2012. Talon Marks is published weekly. Edited by Torque. Opinions expressed in this publication are the personal opinions of the editorial staff, the Associated Students of Cerritos College and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the administration or the Board of Trustees. This publication is made available to the public for educational purposes only. All content is © 2012. Talon Marks. All rights reserved by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Talon Marks is compiled and printed by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Facilities and academic supervision are provided by the Journalism Program. Newsroom offices are located in the Fine Arts Building, Room 204.

Cerritos College is located at 11110 Alondra Blvd., Norwalk, CA 90650. Telephone numbers: (562) 860-2617, ext. 204. Fax (562) 467-5044. Vol. 56 No. 10, Feb/March 2012. Talon Marks is published weekly. Edited by Torque. Opinions expressed in this publication are the personal opinions of the editorial staff, the Associated Students of Cerritos College and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the administration or the Board of Trustees. This publication is made available to the public for educational purposes only. All content is © 2012. Talon Marks. All rights reserved by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Talon Marks is compiled and printed by the Associated Students of Cerritos College. Facilities and academic supervision are provided by the Journalism Program. Newsroom offices are located in the Fine Arts Building, Room 204.
Students find problem with graffiti

The problem with graffiti written in the restrooms on campus are a concern to students.

Students feel that the messages are vulgar, resulting as a failed attempt from artists to pass on positive messages.

English major James Mitchell thinks the drawings in the men’s restrooms are degrading to women.

He said, “A lot of the artwork is very lewd.”

“It makes the restrooms look unattractive.”

Although some students claim that the art can be offensive, other students are not negatively impacted by it.

Instead, they wonder what the motivation is behind the people who write and draw on the restroom stalls.

Kinesiology major Breanna Ponce explained her lack of interest.

She said, “People have paid to paint these stalls and now it’s permanent.”

Due to the graffiti in the restrooms around campus, janitors are having to repaint the walls and stalls of the affected areas.

Ponce also expressed her feelings about the artwork in the restrooms.

She said, “To share art doesn’t mean you have to vandalize it. If they write or draw something on a piece of paper, then that is not a problem.”

Wanting to share a piece of mind is acceptable, she continued to say, “A paper taped to the wall will still pass on your message.”

Mitchell said, “I believe students who write on the restrooms’ walls like to mask themselves.”

He compared the sharing of the pictures and quotes in the restrooms to Facebook by saying, “People like to hide, and attack behind their computer screens.”

Clarification on a previous story

In a photo cutline published in the March 7 issue, titled, “Theater Department hosts Burnie’s Award Show at Studio Theatre,” the name of undecided major Emmanuel Plascencia was written as the student pictured and that he was awarded $250 for the Kevin Hoggard Scholarship.

The correct statement for the cutline is the student’s name is undecided major Dario Estrella and was awarded $500 for the Kevin Hoggard Scholarship.
Baseball loses two in a row to LBCC

Losing three games in a row against Long Beach City College, the Cerritos College baseball team lost to its nemesis: 1-0 on Saturday, 6-2 on Friday and 2-0 on Thursday. In the first two innings, neither of the teams were able to get any runs.

Outfielder Chris Esparza said, “I think we just put ourselves on a downhill. We didn’t play as a team, we didn’t have heart, and we pretty much gave up.”

Esparza had two strikeouts and three put-outs throughout the game.

In the third inning, LBCC scored two runs with three hits and no errors.

It was in the sixth inning that the Falcons infielder Zach Johnson scored two runs with three hits and an error. The Falcons’ pitcher John Bell said the previous game was probably the worst game in played in the series.

Cerritos had played LBCC in the previous game as well, losing 1-3.

Bell said that the team had improved on what it lacked in the first game.

“We were actually able to get bunts down in key situations and more runners over into scoring po- sitions. We just couldn’t execute to get them home,” he said.

Infielder Josh Ancona said, “I think our key player was our starting pitcher [Jonathan Villapando] because he started off strong and kept us in the game.”

With two hits, one RBI and nine put-outs in the game, Ancona said that as far as improvement is concerned, he wants to be able to come up with a clean hit.

Cerritos currently has a record of 12-7-1 in the season.

With a four in a row losing streak, Bell said, “We just can’t put together a good game of baseball yet.”

He added that with the record Cerritos currently has, it will be a challenge when facing the team.

Coach Ken Gaylord has stayed back and is trying to get the team figure out what’s going on so that it can improve on its own.

The Falcons’ next game will be away against El Camino College Comcast Center on Thursday at 2 p.m.

This will be Cerritos’ first game against ECC Compton this season.

Two women from the Cerritos College women’s track team have the chance to break records this year in the male-dominated sport of pole vaulting.

It’s a sport that combines the speed of sprinting with the full body strength and bal- ance technique necessary to fly up and over a 12-foot bar.

Cerritos pole vaulter Jennifer Marroquin said, “It’s a full body sports event. It’s very mentally tough but you have to do it without really thinking about it.”

More so than other track and field sports, pole vaulting engages all major muscle groups.

During the approach, a vaulter is running while using his upper body to control the pole and get a good plant.

During the swing up, the vaulter uses upper body and grip strength to raise the body of the pole while using core muscles to lift the body and over the bar.

Cerritos College’s other woman pole vaulter, Maria Villacan, said, “You use every part of your body.”

“You’re attending to everything in the pro- cess, doing every part of everything just right. Everything you do, it all goes into the vault.”

The sport of pole vaulting focuses more on detailed execution of technique than many other field events.

A simplistic breakdown lists seven steps involved in each pole vault. More detailed studies list 30 or more factors that determine optimum success.

“It’s too much to think about,” Marro- quin said.

“You focus on one part right at it could make everything else up. Coach breaks it down and we do drills to get each part down as muscle memory. Then when we vault, it natural, it flows.”

“Do it over and over to know what each part feels like when we do it right.”

Marroquin explained.

“Our body commits it to muscle memory so when we put it all together we know this is the way it’s supposed to be.”

Singer said, “Eventually you get to the point where you really just do it kind of naturally. “You don’t think about it.”

“The mental aspects of pole vaulting is what separates the ancient sport from others, ac- cording to coach Nicholas Armstrong.

“It’s a real mental challenge. It’s a test of your mental fortitude as an athlete and as a person,” Armstrong said.

“You’re asking the question, can you do it? Do you have strong enough confidence that it will work for you?”

A lot of people don’t try it, according to Armstrong.

“I always just imagined being able to fly but never really thought about it. I always just imagined being able to fly but never really thought about it.”

A lot of people just can’t believe they are going to run toward a box with a pole in their hand and that it’s going to work.

“In pole vaulting you have to know I’m going to run down this runway. I’m going to stick this pole in the box,” Armstrong said.

“It’s going to bend for me and it’s going to throw me over this bar.”

Marroquin said, “If you have a good plant, and as long as you trust the pole, you should land in the net. Just never let go of the pole.”

Coming from a soccer and gymnastics background, the thin pole vaulting for the first time in curiosity.

“I was working out one day and just tried it. It was fun, I wanted to do it more. It seems kind of weird at first.”

Singer said, “It’s weird. You’ve going to feel silly at first. It’s weird. It feels wrong. You’ve going to feel stupid, but it’s fun. Pole vaulters are a different breed.”

Singer, who has success in high school pole vaulting, first tried pole vaulting for a friend.

“One day you say, ‘I am going to do that’,” Singer laughed. “Then I came back to it and I don’t know why but I just stick to it and stick to it.”

The sport is gaining in popularity through- out the world. Pole vaulting became an Olym- pic sport in 1896, but only men.

It nearly part of the women’s Olympic com- petition until 2000.

“Olympics is like a crazy dream,” Singer said.

“I want to see if I could compete at the olym- pics. Of course I would go for any Olympic oppor- tunity it would be amazing. It’s the Olym- pics. But I have to get there first.”

For the last four years, women’s pole vault- ing has been dominated by Yelena Isinbayeva of Russia.

The current outdoor world record is 5.06 meters (16.67 ft) set in Athens just set a new indoor record of 5.05 meters (16.57 ft) on Feb. 23.

“ Buchnevich, even though didn’t, consider the world record holder, is constantly trying to beat her self,” Marroquin said.

“You’re constantly, leaving your best, keep doing your best. That’s why. she’s constantly breaking the world record.”

Her warm ups are pretty much our track warm up too. After you let the warm up wear off you can begin walking down the runway doing hand stands for a while. I have to be able to last through her warm ups and then, see if I can last through her work out.”

Singer and Marroquin are hoping to break another record. First is the California state rec- ord. Karen Gurza, formerly of Cerritos College, has held the California state women pole vault record of 12 feet and 4 inches for almost four years.

“My own goal is actually breaking the school record,” said Singer.

“I want to go as close as I can and then when I do, get as far away as possible even more.”

Both Cerritos women vaulters are in the running to break that mark this year before they transfer. They are breaking personal rec- ords along the way.

“There was one point where I had to do is just happened,” Singer said. “It’s incredible to get head of your own personal best. At least in the falling part, it’s just a world of excitement. You really just want toKnown, it’s pretty crazy. I’m speechless. I can’t articulate putting all of my happiness.”

Armstrong said, “The tough part is that we’re a coach sometimes is trying to push the people across to the ladies and communicate at a level they can understand. It’s not like other sports. With the pole vault it’s a physical strengthening and also a strong mental strengthening.”

“The is the running”, Armstrong continued. “Everybody can catch some spikes. You may be fast or slow. But not everyone has the courage and heart to pole vault.”

Miguel Villacan, a javelin thrower and discus thrower and shot putter, also went to attend the invitational, but gave his thoughts on the teams’ performances.

“I think they did pretty well,” he said.

“We have a strong team and eve- eryday we are working hard to get better as well as support each other to improve our form.”

Caro English, a hammer and discus thrower, commented on her performances.

“I competed in the hammer and discus throw, but I did not place in any of the events.”

“We did overall, pretty good. I need to focus on myself and on my team to improve.

My goal is to get to state and to at least place in the top. Our next competition is this Friday at Cerrit- tos,” she said.

The men and women’s track team will be participating in the California Relays at the Cerritos College track on Wednesday at 10 a.m.

Miguel Villaca

Scan to listen to an interview with Cerritos pitcher Jake Bell

Mobile News

Scan to listen to an interview with shot putter Destini Poplar

http://bit.ly/Arzg5Q0

Mens and women’s track place in the top 15 at the Benny Brown Invitational

Michael Westerfield/TM

Online Contributor

Michael Westerfield

michael.westerfield@talonmarks.com

SPORTS - 5

Wednesday, March 14, 2012 • www.talonmarks.com
Student athletes still need to register first

Athletes should get first pick on classes each semester. Athletes are the ones who put out a name for our colleges, if a school has good sports teams, chances are that not many students will attend that school and that affects a lot of boundaries for the school.

If a school has a good sports program then students will be attracted to attend that school and even attend the games. Athletes make their schools prosper. Athletes are pretty much the face of a college, for instance we know USC has a wonderful academic program but primarily people know USC for its sports teams.

Kids dream of going to USC and playing for that team and the possibility to play in a National Championship. Each school is going to do what it can to enhance the way it’s looked at and to attract as many students as the school can.

Colleges like to favor the athletes more than the average student. You’re probably heard recently about all those big name schools getting in trouble for giving its star players extra benefits and gifts.

Coaches are willing to take the risks of pampering a pro-caliber star in order to attract students and fans to the school and the games. So when athletes start dropping classes, not attending, or not giving 110 percent effort in order to pass classes, not attending, or not giving 110 percent effort in order to pass classes, that’s where the line should be drawn with priority registration.

Sports scores on your smart phone

By: Matthew Caldwell  Staff Writer

TALON MARKS
Wednesday, March 14, 2012 • www.talonmarks.com

Going mobile - above is a picture of Cerritos College sports scores. Mobile users can now access scores on a smartphone.

The Cerritos College Athletic News team is developing a new mobile app that will work for both the iPhone and Android phones. The app will include sports scores and a weekly schedule for both the Cerritos College Athletic News and Cerritos College Academic News. Students can check day every new scores for the games their school has played.

Kinesiology major Dominique Chavez talked about why students should get the app. “In conference, many students are interested in any particular sports team at Cerritos. Program Assistant Samuel Chavez talked about why students should get the app. “It’s convenient for students who are on the road or just want to know how our school did in games.”

The actual app is not available yet. The team has already developed a mobile link so that students can click on a link and bookmark it to their mobile internet.

Mobile News

Scan to hear a story of the day

TALON MARKS

http://bit.ly/x6b7Bq

The Cerritos womens softball team celebrates after a home run. The game against ECC Compton College on Thursday ended when the referees called the game on a mercy ruling.

Mercy rule leads to softball win in bottom of the fourth

The Falcons started off the bottom half of the first inning with Alexxa Sanabria, who reached first base on an error by Compton Center followed by a single from center fielder Shelby Hair. Batting third in the same inning, Quintana hit a three run homerun to center field giving the Falcons a three run lead.

The high scoring inning started with a double by Sanabria and ended with RBIs from Blair, Quintana, Castrellon, Krista Mele and an unearned run by Andrea Arndt who scored on a wild pitch. In the third inning the Falcons replaced Cassela with Castrellon and the starting the inning with a walk, but managed to face only four batters because of a double play by Sanabria and a groundout to end the inning.

Castrellon worked out with her father the previous day after receiving word that she might pitch. Her father describes the work out. “We worked out for about 45 minutes. We worked on her fastball, change-ups and her rhythm again getting back into shape.”

On a homerun over the wall in left field to stretch the lead to 12-2.

The only runs for Compton Center came in the fourth inning with a RBI single hit by pitcher Kimmie Mensild and an unearned run from catcher Alex De La Cruz.

The two runs scored by Compton Center weren’t enough to cut the lead because the Falcons Jackie Flores hit another homerun in the bottom of the fourth inning.

Coach Nicole Doel mentioned why Flores is capable of hitting home runs, “She’s got unbelivable power, when she connects, the ball flies.”

The Falcons defense stopped ECC Compton Center from scoring in the fifth inning allowing umpires to enforce a mercy rule that ended the game.

Mobile News

Scan to hear a story of the day

TALON MARKS

http://bit.ly/x6b7Bq

The Cerritos womens softball team celebrates after a home run. The game against ECC Compton College on Thursday ended when the referees called the game on a mercy ruling.

Mercy rule leads to softball win in bottom of the fourth

The Falcons started off the bottom half of the first inning with Alexxa Sanabria, who reached first base on an error by Compton Center followed by a single from center fielder Shelby Hair. Batting third in the same inning, Quintana hit a three run homerun to center field giving the Falcons a three run lead.

The high scoring inning started with a double by Sanabria and ended with RBIs from Blair, Quintana, Castrellon, Krista Mele and an unearned run by Andrea Arndt who scored on a wild pitch. In the third inning the Falcons replaced Cassela with Castrellon and the starting the inning with a walk, but managed to face only four batters because of a double play by Sanabria and a groundout to end the inning.

Castrellon worked out with her father the previous day after receiving word that she might pitch. Her father describes the work out. “We worked out for about 45 minutes. We worked on her fastball, change-ups and her rhythm again getting back into shape.”

On a homerun over the wall in left field to stretch the lead to 12-2.

The only runs for Compton Center came in the fourth inning with a RBI single hit by pitcher Kimmie Mensild and an unearned run from catcher Alex De La Cruz.

The two runs scored by Compton Center weren’t enough to cut the lead because the Falcons Jackie Flores hit another homerun in the bottom of the fourth inning.

Coach Nicole Doel mentioned why Flores is capable of hitting home runs, “She’s got unbelievable power, when she connects, the ball flies.”

The Falcons defense stopped ECC Compton Center from scoring in the fifth inning allowing umpires to enforce a mercy rule that ended the game.